

Anya Pawar - Initial Meeting Notes

During our first meeting Andriana and I discussed my idea and its personal relevance to me. We exchanged contact information and talk through some of the wireframes that I created. I explained my idea for a splash opening page and a top navigation and Andriana, and I decided that this would be something that we would try out in future steps. I explained how I wanted to create an additional tab on the culture of Narkanda, as there is a deep and rich cultural history of the town. We will be talking in the coming days to explore wireframes, design palettes.