Notes from HTML Review

Creative Director: Anya

Designer: Andriana

- Looks so great! Colors came out lovely!
- Possibly reducing the height of the green top nav will draw less attention to the area
- On the launch page - try reducing the white space between "Narkanda" and "discover the beauty of the hills"
- Add a source page somewhere on the site - wiki lines, image links (it could be attached in the footer)
- Differentiate the "Narkanda" in the top right with the header font so that "Narkanda" looks more like a button
- Also aligning the "Narkanda" with something else on the page would help - right now the placement feels a bit arbitrary
- Moving "Nakrkanda" over to the left would help this, also adding a slight hover state (opacity difference?)
- If you have extra time, try experimenting with css transitions to make the green-> white shift less harsh on the eye (top nav)
- Image captions could help
- Good luck! Excited to see the final